OKA TRAY

The Oka tray carries a quiet echo of tradition, its form inspired by the serving trays that have accompanied Japanese rituals for centuries. These trays, once simple companions to daily life and ceremony, find new life in a shape that is both sculptural and serene.

Its silhouette speaks of balance and proportion, an architectural presence distilled into the gentlest of gestures. It holds space with grace, whether cradling the objects of everyday life, framing seasonal arrangements, or standing alone as an artwork in its own right.

The Oka tells a story of heritage carried forward, where past and present meet in harmony. It is an invitation to pause, to see beauty in simplicity, and to celebrate tradition reimagined.
