HIKARI WALL LAMP, Ø45

In Japanese, Hikari means light, a word that whispers of warmth, purity, and presence. The Hikari Collection was born from this idea: that light is not only something we see, but something we feel, a soft companion to our spaces, a quiet rhythm in the air. Each lamp captures the moment when light meets stillness. The opal glass shade, smooth and circular, gently flattened, diffuses a glow as tender as dawn through mist. Behind it, a graceful trumpet form conceals the metal wall cup, a hidden gesture of craft and care. Three slender metal sticks hold the glass in place, poised like fine lines of balance that lend structure to serenity. Whether placed upon a wall or ceiling, Hikari becomes part of the architecture itself, a hush of radiance that binds one space to another. It belongs equally to intimate homes and open interiors, to quiet corners and bright halls, always bringing with it a sense of calm and cohesion. Hikari is light distilled to its essence, not merely illumination but emotion. A presence that turns space into feeling, and silence into glow.
